THE HENNEPIN CANAL.

Some Kind of a Bill Expected to Pass at the Present Session in Favor of Building the Canal.

Special to the Sentinel.

Washington, Jan. 23 -"I believe some kind of a bill looking to the beginning of work on the Hennepin Canal will be passed at this session of Congress," said Representative Wallace, of Ohio, to your correspondent to-day.

time in favor of the outlook of this project, and I asked:

"Why do you think so, Mr. Wallace" "Because there has been a great deal of change in sentiment here on the subject during the past two or three years," replied he, "and I think there is a decided majority in favor of the measure in the House."

"But how about the Senate?" late-I should think a majority would vote for it in the Senate. Of course, much depends upon the shape the subject is presented. It will come up in a separate and distinct bill from the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors. In no way will the regular River and Harbor bill be hindered by the Hennepin Canal project,"

"Will there not be the constitutional objection made to the Hennepin Canal, as

"Oh, yes. There are some who object to every class of improvement, almost, on the ground that it is unconstitutional; but the men who take refuge behind the Constitution are not many now, and they are generally laughed at. I don't see how the Hennepin Canal can be ruled out any more than Mississippi River on constitutional grounds. It is not an internal improvement by any means, nor is it an improvement for the benfit of any State, or two or three States. It is a matter of interest to every State beyoud the Mississippi. It throws the Northern lakes and the Mississippi together, and will yery materially cheapen freight to the people in West. The railroads are fighting the measure and I presume will continue to fight it; but I have yet to hear the first objection to it from a citizen not interested in railroad property. It would open a new field for the cattle and stock men of the far West and Southwest, and I can think of nothing that would bless them more. It appears to be only a question of a few years when ships will be running from the Mississippi into the Northern lakes."

Washington Monument Dedication Overshadowed by the Inauguration.

Washington, Jan. 23 -The arrangements for the dedication of the Washington monument, on the 21st of February, are not progressing as rapidly at this time as they should, and the enthusiasm which once possessed people nere has died out. A year ago it was expected that the attractions of the dedication would eclipse those of the in-

An effort was to be made to have some for eign countries take part in the dedication and make it sort of international, but the scheme has failed because it was not started. Little Interest Being Taken in Public Affairs by the Present Congress.

Special to the Sentinel. Washington, Jan. 23.—But few meetings of committees in the House or Senate will be held during this Congress. Only those having some connection with matters in the appropriation bills will have meetings, with the possible exception of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, looking to treaty matters. The work that will be done during the remainder of the session will nearly all be performed on the floors of the two bodies. The committee rooms are places only for loungers.

The Magnanimous (?) Manner in Which the Brave Deed of Two Little Boys Was Rewarded.

wife and a party of friends accompany him. In coming up the Alabama Great Southern Railroad he had his car attached to the engine to escape the smoke. As the train neared a sharp curve in the road, going at the rate of forty miles an bour, two little boys were seen on the track frantically waving their hats.

They succeeded in stopping the train at the brink of an awful chasm, the bridge over which had floated off in a torrent. The boys had stood there for four hours in a temperature near zero to save the train from certain destruction, for had it gone twenty yards further every car would have dashed into the deep abyss. A collection was taken up for the little heroes. Mr. Lorillard gave $5.

LIBERTY BELL.

The Glorious Piece of Metal Whose Tones Were Heard Round the World Starts on Its Southern Journey.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.-Liberty Bell was taken from Independence Hall this morning at 8 o'clock. A procession of 500 policemen started for West Philadelphia depot. The truck on which the old bell was hauled through the streets was appropriately decorated with garlands, flowers and flags, and was drawn by six horses. Two bands of music were in the procession. Many houses along the route were decorated. At the depote the bell was transferred to a special car, constructed by the Pennsylvania Railwoad to bear it and its guard of three officers to the Exposition. The bell plat-form in the car is protected by a brass raiing with posts decorated with gilded bells. The large frame upon which the bell is secured is the only work upon the platform

The venerable relic was securely bolted to the frame. In full view at the top of the frame is the inscription, "1776 Proclaimed Liberty." On each side of the car are two clasped hands, with the names of the two cities, Philadelphia and New Orleans, on either side. The car was then attached to a special train for New Orleans, carrying the committee of the City Council. The start was made at 10 o'clock. They expect to run forty miles an hour, and to reach Pittsburg at 9:50 p. m., Cincinnati at 10:30 a m. tomorrow, Louisville at 6 p. m. and New Orleans at noon on Monday.

Wanted to See "Liberty Bell," PITTSBURG, Jan. 23. - Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, between 2,000 and 3,000 people were at the Union Depot when the train carrying the liberty bell arrived. There was no formal demonstration, however, and after stopping thirty minutes to allow those present to view the carioxity the train at 9:30 started for Cincinnati over Pan-Handle Road.

It is a pleasing part allotted to me to present to you the evidence that you have enjoyed educational advantages which terminate to-day. The cause of education is so important in a country where the intelligence and proper training of a people lie at the foundation of the safety of the State, that no patriotic citizen can fail to be interested in an pecasion of this kind, where an institution so useful as our Normal School, which sends forth a class so fully equipped for the battle of life, and for the discharge of the dates watch await them as American men and women. Some of you will, I suppose, in the capacity of teachers, guide and direct those who will look forward to a graduation day which shall. like yours, be full of satisfaction and hope. You will owe to them a sacred duty, and your parent school has the right to demand at your hands that her influence, which by your teaching will be entarged and broadened, shall lose none of the salutary and beneficient character with which it rests on you at this hour, and those of you who shall follow other ways of life, are in duty bound to do honor by achieving success and usefulness in the light of her juspiration. We will not harbor the thought to-day that the diplomas which you are about to receive will ever remind you of school hours wasted or of opportunities unimproved, but rather we will hope that they will be souvenirs of happy days and of associations which through life you may pleasantly

BATTLE OF ABU KLEA WELLS.

Private Advices State It Was a Drawn Battle - Stewart Entrenched on the Field.

London, Jan. 23.-Advices received late this afternoon from Korti assert that the rebels surrounded General Stewart in the desert, where he has taken up an entrenched position to await reinforcements from General Wolseley. Deserters from the rebel lines state the Mahdi's officers consider the affair at Abu Klea Wells a drawn battle: the Arabs were neither routed nor pursued, and fell back in an orderly manner, not in the least demoralized by the outcome of the engagements. They recovered themselves so quickly and effectively that General Stewart dared not move, and was compelled to entrench himself on the scene of the conflict. Government officials discredited the information conveyed in the above private dis-

London Daily Papers Have Heard Nothing From Their Correspondents About the Battle.

LONDON, Jan. 23 .- The Times, Telegraph, and Standard have not yet received reports of the batile at Abc Klea Wells, although they had special correspondnts in the field. This fact increases the public anxiety concerning the fate of General Stewart. The belief has become prevalent that the battle at the Wells was more severe than the Government is willing to admit, There is an impression that official reports were colored at the war office, and special dispatches intercepted by the press censors because they contained information which throw an ebectionable light on the affair.

Uneasiness About Stewart.

THE OKLAHOMA BOOMERS.

The Situation and Disposition of the Troops -General Hatch's Notice Served on Couche's Colony at Stillwater.

CALDWELL, Kas. Jan. 23.-By mail and courier the Associated Press correspondent has received news from General Hatch's headquarters at Camp Russell, I. T. The communications were dated January 19, and were delayed by storms until to-day. The communication is as follows: General Hatch and Lieutenant Finley are in camp waiting for Major Dewesse, who left Fort Reno yesterday with three troops of cavalry, I. G. and C. and Company D of the Twentieth Infantry. As soon as they arrive the General will command, and with troops "I" will join Captain Moore, who has three troops in Stillwater. The troops will all be concentrated by Friday. A battery or two of Hotchkiss guns is expected with the Reno troops. The last count of boomers in Stillwater, sent in by a boy, Sergeant Wilson gives 375 men. The following notice was on Tuesday served upon the Couches colony at Stillwater: "To whom it may concern: That the orders and proclamation of the President of the United States may be enforced per-taining to the Indian Territory, for the ejectment of persons who are now there without authority, and who have already resisted with arms the order to remove them, it has been found necessary to invoke the assistance of the military. The General commanding the Department of the Missouri has been intrusted with the enforcement of the laws, and dispatched a large force under command of the undersigned, with instructions to see that the laws are observed in the Indian Territory of Oklahoma. It is within the knowledge of the officer in command that some hundreds of men have banded together to resist the execution of the law, in avowed insurrection against the Government. It is devoutly to be hoped that any unlawful action on part, leading to the sacrifice of human life, may be avoided. It must be clearly understood that the killing of any soldier, obeying orders in the execution of his duty, by men armed to resist the law is simply murder, and that they will sooner or later be tried for the same as principals

It is with great regret the commanding officer learns that men who served their country faithfully, during some of the best years of their life, to sustain the laws of the Government, are now openly leagued with insurgents against the flag they served so well. It ill becomes as old soldiers of reflection they must acknowledge their error. To you, as to all citizens, legislation is openly to settle any grievances. There is no necessity to resort to arms. Should the collision occur, to which it is the intention of your leaders to compel you, the military will not be responsible for the loss of life or stock from roving bands of Indians, who will seize the opportunity to inflict injury, and all trouble can easily be avoided by observing the proclamation of the President of he United States, and leaving the Territory as Releasing Hodgkins from his grasp Sullivan, who was mad with rage and liquor, struck Deliere, felling him senseless. The friends of the latter interfered and the fight became general.
